

Jill Le Grand

During her robust career in the US, UK and France, Jill Le Grand has focused on finance, business planning, business development and category management in Entertainment and Media, Consumer Products and Licensing. She has a proven and successful track record in Global and Regional executive leadership positions.

Jill started her career in investment banking in New York after earning a degree in Economics from Barnard College. She then decided to move to France to immerse herself in an international setting both personally and professionally and live in a vibrant city rich in culture and tradition. After spending 3 years in Paris where Jill worked for a small non-profit educational institute and KPMG, she returned to the US to further her studies, earning a joint MBA/MA The Wharton School and The Lauder Institute of The University of Pennsylvania as part of the French track.

Upon graduation, Jill began working for The Walt Disney Company in Los Angeles where she spent over 20 years, with an intermediary experience at Vivendi Universal. Recently Jill has left the corporate world to create her own consulting company, JBLG Consulting, where she advises smaller companies on financial, strategic, and business planning projects. She is also actively involved in community and lifelong learning initiatives as the President of the Lauder Institute Alumni Association and as a Board trustee and Treasurer of The American Library in Paris.

Jill currently lives in Paris, is married to a fellow Wharton graduate, and has a multi-lingual (English, French, Spanish, Russian, Italian and some Mandarin) 21 year old daughter.
